

Stuart Duff

Stuart Duff is a Business Psychologist and Partner with Pearn Kandola. He began his career at Deloitte in the global consulting business and subsequently has grown the leadership development and talent management business at Pearn Kandola. His main focus is on helping senior leaders to take on new business challenges through increasing self-understanding and focusing on aspirational goals.

Stuart has spent his career consulting with organisations on leadership performance and personal development. His work with senior leadership teams and high potential leaders from many of the FTSE 500 companies has given him a highly commercial and grounded view of what it takes to be a successful leader across many different business environments. With this experience, Stuart can offer a very practical and pragmatic approach to coaching, while, as a chartered psychologist, he brings a genuine edge to understanding and enhancing performance at work, drawing on a range of coaching tools and techniques such as personality profiling, motivational interviewing and leadership modelling. Stuart has worked with senior managers and executives on areas such as leadership development, maintaining resilience, developing confidence and personal impact, developing strategic vision and building effective relationships.
